U.S. BUILT AIRCRAFT ON FRENCH CARRIER BEARN, 1940.

The French carrier Bearn had 106 American-built airplanes aboard when she sailed from Halifax, Nova Scotia, Jun 1940. The planes were then transferred to a hillside near Fort-de-France, Martinique, where they deteriorated in the tropical climate. At some unknown time before replacement of the island's Vichy government, the planes were deliberately damaged in anticipation of an U.S. invasion. The liberation of Martinique, Jul 1943, found all aircraft unsuitable for flying and, apparently, beyond repair. See:
