Proponent: USAWC; Dept of Military Strategy, Planning and Operations

Location: Carlisle Barracks, PA

Frequency/Duration: 2 Courses Per Year; 1 Week in duration.

Attendees: 14-16 Army and Marine General Officers, BG through LTG, targeted at Corps/Division Commanders and Deputy/Assistant Commanders, and Commanders of equivalent theater-level commands. Also includes Air Force, Navy and Coalition Commanders.

Description: The course will focus on preparing senior officers to function effectively as Land Component Commanders. Functioning in the joint, combined/multinational, and interagency environment, these commanders will prepare themselves to formulate, prepare for and execute land-centric operations that provide Combatant Commanders the capabilities to achieve rapid, decisive and sustained land dominance that is critical to effective national policy accomplishment. Under the direction of a senior mentor team (retired GEN with two LTG's who have served as a C/JFLCC), this seminar-based course will challenge senior officers to examine the key elements of forming and executing functional land component commands at the theater/operational levels in support of the Joint Force Commander, and in conjunction with air (C/JFACC), maritime (C/JFMCC) and special operations (C/JFSOC) component commands. The course will also explore the challenges of conducting sustained land dominance operations in an interagency and multinational (non-governmental and international organizational) environment. Included will be a rigorous exercise which will challenge the attendees to develop solutions and issue guidance essential to deploying, forming, controlling, protecting, sustaining, and operating a combined and/or joint land command at the theater/operational level of war.

Integration with Existing General Officer Training: This course will be integrated with both CAPSTONE (JOM) and JFOWC, and will not replicate their content.

POC: Dr. Gregory L. Cantwell, USAWC, JFLCC Course Director, (717)-245-3235, Gregory.l.cantwell.civ@mail.mil.
